The facts speak for themselves.

Ireland is one of Europe's largest MedTech hotspots and a global centre of excellence with ongoing R&D investment and is home to 300+ companies employing over 50,000 people.

14 of the world's top 15 companies have operations in Ireland, spanning multiple sites and Ireland employs the highest number of MedTech personnel per capita in Europe.

Ireland supplies 97 of the world's top 100 countries (ranked by GDP) with €14.9+ billion of annual exports and MedTech accounts for 8% of exports from Ireland.

Galway, in particular, is home to the cluster of Cardiovascular Medical Device global market leaders, producing the highest levels of R&D and High Tech Innovation worldwide.

As well as multinationals, Galway plays host to the most medical technology companies, start-ups and research centres in the country.

Ireland is a global leader in innovative patient-centred medical technology solutions and manufactures:

80%

of global stents

75%

of orthopedic knee replacements

33%

of the world's contact lenses

25%

of diabetic injectable devices
