

CURIOSITY THROUGH RESEARCHING HISTORICAL ISSUES

HUMANITIES - CONFIDENT INDIVIDUALS

THINK LIKE A HISTORIAN!

The main aim of this unit is to help develop independent research skills that will prepare you for university. Even if you are not studying History at university, research will be an important part of any degree. Throughout this unit, you will learn how to identify reliable sources, explore and reference academic journals, propose and plan a research project. The best part is - you can research any historical issue you want!

You will develop your planning ability, learn how to adapt to challenges with researching and hone your critical thinking skills to prepare you for university!

SKILLS FOCUS

COMMUNICATING

COLLABORATING

LEADING

CURIOSITY

CREATIVITY

CRITICAL THINKING

INITIATIVE

ADAPTING

FOCUSING

RECOGNITION OF ACHIEVEMENT

Level 7 Researching Historical Issues

LEARNING INTENTION, SUCCESS CRITERIA & CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

Learning Intentions

I will be able to:

- Develop an understanding of the principles of effective research.
- Develop my critical thinking skills by choosing appropriate sources for research.
- Use my initiative to find sources from a variety of locations.

Success Criteria

I can:

- Propose and plan a research project.
- Explain the utility of academic conventions and referencing.
- Identify and correctly utilise an appropriate research methodology.
- Identify and correctly utilise an appropriate referencing method.

Career Opportunities

- Historian/academia
- Civil service
- Museum worker
- Archaeologist
- Journalist

The Four Capacities

