Our fee estimates are calculated on an hourly basis, with charge-out rates for our fee earners ranging from £150 to £450 per hour (see below), depending on their seniority and experience. Please note that all fee estimates are exclusive of VAT, which will be added to each bill where applicable.

Please note our pricing list sets out the various types of immigration applications. In certain circumstances we may adopt a strategy which involves a combination of applications in order to advance your case.

Our services cover a wide range of matters, including assistance with Asylum and Human Rights applications. We are also frequently instructed on highly specialised applications, often outside the scope of the Immigration Rules, for which it is not feasible to provide a standard cost guide.

Depending on the type of application and the client's individual circumstances, we may offer either a fixed fee or an hourly-rate quotation for our services. The information below applies to both situations.

Every applicant's circumstances are unique, making it challenging to provide a single, all-encompassing price that addresses every scenario. Therefore, when considering engaging our services for any of the applications outlined in the guide below, we encourage you to review the following information carefully.

Most of the services we provide are offered on a fixed fee basis. The fee will vary depending on the complexity of the matter.

We will always agree with you what the fixed fee will be prior to accepting your instructions. Where we agree to work for a fixed fee, we specify the work that we will or will not do. Where we need to do work outside the scope of that specified, it will be necessary to charge you more. We will then agree with you to charge a further fixed fee.

Factors that could make a case more complicated and increase the cost of your case

The following are examples of issues that may impact on the cost:

- The seniority of the lawyer managing your case. If there is a preference for your work to be carried out at a higher level, then this will impact the fee estimates.
- The amount of supporting evidence that we need to consider.
- Whether you have had a previous adverse immigration matter, such as a visa refusal, removal from the UK, criminal convictions, or adverse credit history.
- Which language you speak.

- Whether you are applying with dependents and the number of dependents involved.
- How easily you are able to provide all of the supporting evidence.
- How clearly you meet the eligibility criteria for the relevant application.
- The urgency of your case.
- In relationship cases, where you are not married or where there are stepchildren or where you have to show sole responsibility of raising your children.
- Where there are compelling and exceptional circumstances that need to be addressed
- When there is a substantial volume of financial documents requiring thorough examination and review.
- Where your matter involves two applications tailored together.

If our fees change, we will inform you of this.
